

THE RYMAN DIFFERENCE

At Ryman our pioneering spirit is part of everything we do. It's why we only want the best people – who share our pioneering attitude towards life and retirement living. All our people from construction workers to senior nursing executives have the same goal: it's got to be good enough for Mum, or Dad.

Ryman supports our new graduate nurses with a hybrid model of delivery. You'll be enrolled with your local Te Whatu Ora ora, attend some of their study days, complete your PDRP portfolio and undertake any associated postgraduate study.

And our mental health and cultural navigators will be on hand for wrap around support if you need it.

International students

As an international student you're most likely to have a pioneering attitude too! Ryman believes in providing equitable access to our programme.

So we welcome applications from international students directly to our recruitment manager.

About our netP programme

Ryman Healthcare is committed to providing a programme that facilitates education, learning and critical thinking in an environment that is both safe and supportive. Our aim is to enable new nurses to consolidate their skills and gain confidence in delivering quality care.

You'll be supported in practice by an experienced nurse trained in preceptorship and have the whole village team around you.

You'll also get additional education, support and development opportunities from the Ryman Clinical Advisory and Learning and Development teams.

Ryman content is selected and structured specifically for Aged Care, giving you the knowledge and skills necessary to provide the best possible care for our residents.

From our bespoke electronic record system to the complexities of sub-acute episodes, dementia and palliative care, you'll gain all-round nursing experience.

Ongoing Development

Ryman supports nurses' professional development in a variety of ways from in-house education, short courses and conferences to funded postgraduate study pathways and career progression
